Lewis Huff and wife on the 4th day of September, 1895, executed a deed of assignment to W. R. B. Layman, trustee, for the purpose of securing the payment of certain debts due by the said Lewis Huff to Caleb G. Nininger, Salem Loan and Trust Company and others, aggregating about $9,000 in the first class. The property conveyed was a tract of land on Tinker creek, containing about 150 acres. The trustee was given power to rent or sell, according to the wishes of the majority of creditors. By deed of even date therewith. Lewis Huff conveyed to Alice E. Huff, his wife, eighty acres of land, household and kitchen furniture and other especially named personal property. The consideration of this conveyance was her relinquishing her right of dower in the property conveyed in the above mentioned deed of assignment.

J. Ernest Walker, formerly a resident of Salem, has, with others, become a water right agent in the Rio Verde Canal Company, of Phonix, Arizona.

The following clipping appeared in the Times-Register of yesterday:

"There lives about two miles east of Salem a good and worthy citizen who, however, is a benighted old bachelor. Last Sunday he hauled rails all day, until late evening, and thinking it was Saturday, he quit work and came to town to get his mail and his weekly supply of tobacco. His feelings, when he found it was Sunday, can better be imagined than described. The only exacuse he had for his conduct, that we can cuse he had for his conduct, the we can see, is that he is blindly in love with a well-known Salem widow."

Miss Dickerson, of Richmond, is visiting at Mrs. C. C. Tompkins, on High

The library, society hails and main building of Roanoke College will be open to visitors next Monday evening from 3:30 to 6. A special rate has been made on the electric car line for 25 cents rate for the convenience of those in Roanoke who wish to visit the college.

To-night in the town hall Mrs. Oton The night in the town half Mrs. Oton will give her costume recital. During the evening she will recite Longfellow's "Bridge." This great poet, on hearing Mrs. Oton render this piece, declared that he had "never before realized the great beauty of the lines."

The sermon on temperance recently preached by Rev. J. B. Taylor has been reprinted in several newspapers and has been highly complimented by all who read it.

Workmen are now busily engaged in laying the foundation of Dr. Killian's new residence on Pennsylvania avenue. It will be a handsome addition to that attractive street when completed.

Rev. Jas. H. Lamb, of Morristown, N. J., is registered at Hotel Daval. Next week he will enter his son at Roanoke College.

W. Black Whitescarver was united in marriage to Miss Saveila Wortley Philips Weinesday afternoon in Green Church, Cumberland county. Rev. St. George Abrahams, an uncle of the bride, performed the marriage ceremony The bride and groom arrived in Salem ves-terday evening, and will make their residence on Academy atreet.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Fort Lewis Church, the marriage of G. B. Johnston, of this county, and Miss Annie Laurie Hatcher, daughter of H. Cary Hatcher, of Montgomery county, was celebrated. Rev. J. R. Bridges performed the ceremony. The ushers were Messrs. J. S. Baer, Horace Smith, Jeter Johnson and J. W. Hannah, while J. Ed. Shipman acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple, together J. Ed. Shipman acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple, together with the ushers and a few other friends, drove to "Green Hill," the groom's home, where a bountful supper was served and a pleasant evening spent by all. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are spending their honeymoon at the home of H. U. Hatcher, at Lafayette.

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other discases put together, and until the last cases put together, and until the last few years, was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c.

A Benutiful Actress Whose Advancement

Has Been Slow, but Steady.

Laura Biggar, who in private life is Mrs. Burt Haverly, is at present playing the role of Lida Skiddons, the queen of burlesque, in the company which is presenting "A Black Sheep" on the Pacific coast. During the coming season she will support her husband in "A Trip to Chinatown," doing the part of the Widow, in which she has already made a reputation throughout the country.

Laura Biggar got her first peep at this wicked mundane sphere in Wilmington, Del. She was a bright child and was noted for the excellent manner in which she lor, but no one suspected that she would adopt the stage as a profession. However when she was less than 16 years of age when she was less than 10 years of age, she got an engagement with a company to play small parts in "Ca'led Back" and "Fortune's Fool." While her work gave some promise of better things to come, it was not of such quality as to create a sensation. She decided to continue anyway, and was next with a comple of stock covering the control of the control was not of such quality as to create a sensation. She decided to continue anyway, and was next with a couple of stock companies in San Francisco. One of these organizations presented comic opera exclusively, and she really made a big hit. She remained upon the Pacific coast for the next three years, playing such roles as Eliza in "After Dark" and Ustane in "She." In the latter role especially she won considerable local fame and became a public favorite. She subsequently made a tour of the south in the above mentioned plays, and shortly afterward she came very prominently into notice while starring in the east and south in "The Clemenceau Case." Following her connection with this play she rested for one year at a ranch she had purchased in southern Callfornia. At the close of that vacation she went east to play the role of the Widow in Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown," in which she met with much success. While filling this engagement she was married to Burt Haverly, who was playing Welland Strong in the same company. She next, in company with her husband, traveled for one season with "The Passing Show," after which came the present engagement with "A Black Sheep."

Laura Biggar is really a beautiful woman, possessed of a great deal of that Intanglide quality which the French call "chic." Her forte appears to be in farce comedy and burlesque, inasmuch as her voice is of great assistance to her in that line of work. She has, however, won great commendation in serious roles from thoughtful crities.

The brilliant feuilletonist "Nym Crinkle" has this to say concerning the present complexion of comic opera affairs: "It is a clear case of glut. Of 50 librettos examined 40 deait with mythical islands where a carboat of chorus girls were ship wrecked, and the other ten were still befug examined with a view of finding out what it was they dealt with aside from the costumes. To call these jingling processions operas is very much like calling Mark Twain's thimitable smartness criticism. The women in comic opera sing with their slippers and act with their petticoats. The men who go to see them hear with their eyes and judge with their appetites."

The Avalanche.

The guide gave the word to leave the channel of ice and take to the rocks on the side, for a snowball or two had rolled down from above, and he was afraid more might follow. Scarcely had we got out of our trough and upon the crags when down came an avalanche with a vengeance, and we were within 20 feet of a tremendous discharge of thousands of tons of snow and ice, which swept down the track that we had just ascended. We were perfectly safe, but somehow the half hiss, half roar, remained in my ears for some time, and for many nights afterward, when indigestible suppers or bad Swiss beer produced evil dreams, the avalanche was sure to figure in them.— Blackwood's Magazine.
